Theme: Dream Big

My dear students and teachers, good morning!

Today, I would like to share with you the story of a young boy.

One day, in a small town, a beautiful and elegant car drove through the streets. A little boy stood watching it with great admiration. He loved cars and could not take his eyes off that wonderful machine.

The driver stopped the car, got out, and asked the boy, "Can you tell me how to reach this address?"

The boy replied, "Sir, may I come with you in the car? I can show you the way."

The man smiled and said, "Certainly! Please get in."

As they drove, the boy admired every part of the beautiful car. After reaching the destination, the driver asked him, "Do you like this car?"

The boy answered, "Yes, sir. It is the most beautiful car I have ever seen."

The driver then said, "This car was a gift from my brother."

The boy was amazed. Then he exclaimed, "How I wish..."

My dear students, what do you think he wished for?

Perhaps he wished, "How I wish I had a brother like yours!"

Or maybe, "How I wish I could own a car like this one!"

But the boy surprised everyone. He said,

"How I wish I could become a brother like yours —someone who can give cars to others."

That little boy grew up to become Henry Ford (1863–1947). Born in 1863, he founded the Ford Motor Company in 1903, at the age of 39. His dream was to make cars affordable for ordinary people. Through mass production, he made that dream a reality and changed the world forever.

My dear children, this is the lesson for all of us.

Dream big.

Do not study only to score marks. Study to discover your purpose. Study to make a difference. Your dreams should not stop with getting a job or earning money. Your dreams should help build a better family, a better society, and a better world.

Every one of you can become successful. I believe that.

But let your success become a blessing to others.

Just as Henry Ford changed transportation...

Just as Saint John Bosco devoted his life to young people...

You, too, can make a difference.

At Don Bosco Wisdom Town, we believe that each one of you is gifted with creativity, talent, and the ability to dream. Every morning when you enter this campus, tell yourself:

"I will become a successful person—not only for myself, but for the world. I will dream big. I will work hard. I will contribute to society. I will make this world a better place."

Dear students.

Have a wonderful day. God bless you all!
