My dear students,

Good morning to all of you.

Today, I would like to speak to you about two important words: *worth and net worth.

Worth refers to your true value—your character, your abilities, your goodness, and the unique person you are. It is your inner strength and the qualities that make you who you are.

Net worth , on the other hand, refers to the wealth and assets a person has earned and accumulated. According to the latest global rankings, the three people with the highest net worth in the world are:

1. Elon Musk – approximately US$927 billion.
2. Larry Page – approximately US$295 billion.
3. Sergey Brin – approximately US$272 billion.

But let me ask you a different question: What is your net worth? More importantly, what determines it?

There is a saying: Your net worth depends on your network.

*

Your network is the circle of people you associate with—your friends, teachers, mentors, classmates, and well-wishers. The people you choose to spend time with have a powerful influence on your thoughts, your habits, your decisions, and ultimately your future.

There is another beautiful saying: "Tell me who your friends are, and I will tell you who you are."

Choose friends who encourage you to study well, behave well, dream big, and become better human beings. Good friends will guide you when you are confused, support you when you are weak, and inspire you to achieve greater things. Such a network will help you grow in every aspect of life.

So, my dear children, be wise in choosing your friends and in building meaningful relationships.

Thought for the Day:

"Create good networks that enhance your net worth. Your net worth depends on your network."

Thank you. Have a wonderful day, and may God bless you all.
